money; the experts, through limited control and supervision would have the allies share with the late enemy interest and responsibility in the business of making every German bent a fair share of a fair burden.

Re-establishment of confidence in Germany, on the part of her own people as well as the rest of the world, is held to be vital to success of the plan.

General Dawes' committee has proposed to create this confidence by making it to Germany's interest to pay her debts. To this end the broadest, most complicated scheme ever devised for rehabilitation of a nation and extracting payments is outlined.

Involving intricate mechanism of parallel and interlocking boards of directors—the whole supervised by a "reparations dictator"—to safeguard the rights of the allies who are asked to relinquish their economic grip on the Ruhr, the plan is presented as a unit. It concludes, almost blindly, in a manner characteristic of "Hell and Maria" Dawes that it must be accepted in its entirety or not at all.

FRENCH OPPOSE ADOPTION OF PLAN
PARIS, April 9.—The French press today was critical of the Dawes report, skeptical as to its success, and unfavorable to its adoption. Perinac, celebrated critic of the Echo De Paris said:

"The work presented is hardly satisfactory. It gives Germany means of starting once more her evasions of 1921-22."

HOME PROBLEMS DAD'S PROBLEMS
So Says Speaker at Civitan Luncheon

In this age of decadent home life we can't blame the youths so much for their failures. It is the home problem and the dad problem that we must be concerned with.

This was the message given members of the Civitan club today by J. E. Lewis of Dallas, state Y. M. C. A. official, in an address before the club at its regular weekly luncheon at the New Lake View hotel.

"Business today is more concerned with service than getting than financial difficulties. When I asked Governor Neff for his opinion of what is the trouble with the youth of today, he did not say getting parties or cigarette racking, although these things have a strangle hold on our youth, but he replied the failure of young boys and girls to choose their life work early, and their lack of decision and determination to work toward a definite goal and do something really worth while," Lewis said.

LINCOLN PLAY PLEASES CROWD

Noted Characters of Civil War Days Portrayed

The most interesting pages of American history were opened to the Chautauqua audience last night, when Abraham Lincoln, Secretary of War Stanton, Secretary of the Interior, General Robert E. Lee and other beloved characters of Civil War days stepped on the stage in the masterful production of "The Great Commoner."

Lincoln Well Portrayed
There have been other Lincoln plays produced within the last decade, but "The Great Commoner" is pronounced as superior to all others. In it, the best life of Lincoln, of America's greatest man is shown in his rigorous adherence to principle, justice, truth and mercy is forcibly brought out; and the whimsical humor for which he was noted most truthfully portrayed. The play brought forth many sides of Lincoln, which reveal the man as he looks to the faithful, portraying Lincoln to show the many lovely, tender sides of his enigmatical character.

The play began in 1861 in the home library of a Washington senator whose daughter had just found grandmother's "hope chest" in the attic. This brought out the reminiscences that formed the body of the great comedy drama. The story moved rapidly, touching only highlights and bringing every strong situation into bold relief. The story told of the dark days of war to Lincoln's last public appearance at Ford's theater in Washington, D. C. It was quite a step from the old southern rose garden to the stage of Ford's theater, but with the faithful portrayal of Lincoln's character, the audience was carried through these stages with connecting links of historically correct dates, incidents and places.

Martin as Lincoln
Jack Martin proved himself admirably cast as Abraham Lincoln. He is a native son of Kentucky, was a member of the 11th Machine Gun battalion and was the distinguished Service Cross and the Croix du Guerre. Miss Anita Thompson faithfully portrayed Mrs. Lincoln, and Miss Pauline Keras delightfully depicted Ann Marshall, the southern belle. Sidney Presson, who played the part of the young Southern soldier, is in reality a Southern boy, coming from Tennessee, who in the days of the great strife his grandparents were the beloved gray. He served three and one-half years in the regular army, ending when only 16 years of age. W. A. Neville was said to be especially chosen by the author to play the part of Stanton, having appeared for over 32 consecutive weeks in the play. Alice Hartford, who successfully played three parts, is of English birth. He served four years with the British army, but is now making his home in the United States.

HE PAYS ALIMONY IN COPPER CENTS

NORFOLK, Va., April 9.—Rusty nails, carpet tacks, tin cans and about a ton of rubbish, here mixed with 2,000 pennies which a Norfolk man forwarded his divorced wife for alimony money due. The pennies and other articles were wrapped neatly in a package, sealed and sent by registered mail to court for the woman. The package amounted to $14.29. Records at a local court show that the woman was granted a partial divorce from her husband in 1915 and given the custody of her minor child. The decree also embodied a penal order requiring the husband to pay $20 per month alimony for the support of the child.

RICH SISTERS, IN RAGS, BEFORE COURT

CHATHAM, Mass., April 9.—Grotesquely clad in ragged burlap which was fastened to their bodies by haywire, two elderly spinsters, well educated and reputed wealthy, were arraigned in police court charged with cruelty to animals. They were Irene and Mary Ann Redmore, whom authorities last night hauled away from their valuable 200-acre farm in Honomy township, after having had to fire their guns into the air a score of times to frighten away the "evil spirits" the spinsters vowed lurked in the neighborhood.

REFUSES TO PAY $203 FOR 16 CENTS OF CIGARS

OMAHA, Neb., April 9.—A porter in Germany sent Henry Bornling, Plymouth, Neb., 50 boxes of cigars bought in Germany last summer at the equivalent of about one-third of a cent per box. The bills for duty, ocean freight, customs entry, carriage and storage brought the cost to $203.49, however, and Henry left them to be paid by the customs collector to the highest bidder.

Study of Animal Life Would End Divorce Evil Chief Strongheart Asserts

Modern marriage and morals of white people were heavily scored by Chief Nipo Strongheart yesterday afternoon at Chautauqua, when he pointed out moral lessons from the customs of his tribe.

"A man must prove his worth among the Indians before he is married," said Chief Strongheart. "Today white men and young white women marry when they are very young. The young man is not able to assume the responsibilities of a wife and a home, and the young woman is not fit to be a mother, neither physically nor mentally. When an Indian marries, he must first have proved himself able to take unto himself a wife. He must have received so many honors from his tribe. An Indian boy never associates with Indian girls until he, too, has proved that he is worthy of mingling with young women. He must prove himself a fit associate."

"The Indians learn the solution of a great many problems from birds and animals. From the bird we learn that man never associates with a place for his nest, then after finding it he calls for his mate. Never has a male bird been known to take his mate with him before he finds a location for their home. What a lesson the white man could learn from the bird! The Indian learned this lesson many, many years ago."

"An Indian mother is not like a white mother. She does not keep her daughter in ignorance as the white woman does. She teaches her again from animal life. She teaches her the lessons of the snake in the grass, and compares this animal life with human beings."

Many other interesting sidelights on the life and customs of the Indian were given by Chief Strongheart, who appeared before his audience in full regalia as a chief. His talk was an appeal for the people to assist the government at Washington to help the Indians. The history of the Indians in primitive tribes, after the white man came to the shores of America and the Indian of today was given by Chief Strongheart, hereditary chief of the Yakima Indians.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

WEDNESDAY
The Investment of Life

Read Mt. 20:20-34, Text: 20:28. The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister. "Jesus' intense passion for working with the will of God in leading men forward must have continued with unabated force after death. The resurrection of Jesus, then, meant to him the corroboration of the sense of 'Messianic' leadership which had been developed in his soul. This supreme leadership was continued after death."

MEDITATION: Jesus considered the calling of men to an unselfish life of more value than simply living for himself. He had committed himself unreservedly to the one purpose of investing his all for others.

PERSONAL QUESTION: In what ways am I ministered to by others daily?

PRAYER: Almighty God, our Father, we pray that we may realize our inheritance in Christ. May thy spirit cause us to be conscious of the eternal even as we are engaged in our common labor. Let us see the relationship of thy kingdom, and grant us the assurance that we are co-workers with thee, through Christ. Amen.

CAKE-EATING COCKS CAUSE FREE-FOR-ALL

CHICAGO, April 9.—Frank Karusta lives at 6631 South Knox street and Anna Stasky lives at No. 6637 next door. Both own roosters.

Anna told Judge et al. Schwab in Grand Crossing court: "This man's roosters are always rooting on my fence or on my window sills, and even they come into my house to eat."

"My roosters are well fed," interrupted Frank.

"What do you feed them?" asked the judge.

"Nothing, your Honor," interrupted Anna. "They even eat my pies and cake that I bake."

Frank said: "This woman don't know anything about roosters, and I don't want her roosters associating with mine."

"What's that?" Anna yelled. "They are just as good as yours."

"Why don't you two get married?" suggested the judge.

The suggestion did not seem to meet with approval.

"I'll have to arrest the roosters," said the judge.

Neither Frank nor Anna thought much of that.

"Well, then, you two go home and keep your roosters in your own yards," ordered the judge.

Sweet and Twenty

O Mistress mine, where are you roaming?
Oh, stay and hear; your true love's coming,
That can sing both high and low:
Trip no farther, pretty sweeting;
Journeys end in lovers' meeting.
Every wise man's son doth know.

What is love? 'Tis not hereafter;
Present mirth hath present laughter;
What's to come is still unsure:
In delay there lies no plenty;
Then come kiss me, Sweet-and-Twenty,
Youth's a stuff will not endure.

"LET PEOPLE RULE" BOY CANDIDATE ASKS
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 9.—"Let the people rule" is the platform of Lee J. Price, 25, the Grand Rapids "boy candidate" for mayor.

He declared that he wants to become mayor because he believes there is plenty of room for improvement in the local civic government, and because his friends think he "is the right man for the job."

ENDORSEMENT BY WELL KNOWN HOUSTON MAN
Says That "Merritone Acted Like Magic," in Banishing His Indigestion and Stomach Trouble
"I consider it a pleasure to recommend Merritone and I do so on every opportunity," said Mr. J. H. King of 110 Sherman street, Houston, in talking to one of the Merritone men at Smith's drug store in Houston the other day. "I have reason to be very thankful to your medicine."

"I hadn't been well for years—suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion until I was almost ready to give up hope of ever getting well again. Everything I ate formed a sour gas in my stomach that was extremely unpleasant, together with sharp pains, dizzy spells, shortness of breath and headaches. I was not able to work half the time and not to the point that it was an effort for me to interest myself in anything."

"I had often read about Merritone and a neighbor who had taken it insisted that I get a bottle and try it. I did and before I had finished the first bottle I was the most pleased man in Houston. My stomach trouble disappeared like magic. The sharp pains and the headaches that had bothered me so long are a thing of the past, where I am concerned and I attribute my return to good health entirely to your splendid medicine."

Expressions like that of Mr. King come to us almost daily from people delighted with the results they are obtaining through taking Merritone.

Merritone is a natural remedy compounded entirely of the juices of roots, vegetables, herbs. It tones up the entire system, gently but persistently remodeling irregularities in the bowels—bringing about normal functioning and enriching the blood.

Merritone is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or your money will be cheerfully refunded. Talk to the Merritone men at the Owl Drug Store, the Houston Avenue Drug Store or the American Pharmacy. They will be glad to tell you more about this excellent medicine.—Adv.

Blinding Headaches
"For about twenty years," says Mr. P. A. Walker, of Newburg, Ky., "one of our family remedies has been Black-Draught, the old reliable. I use it for colds, biliousness, sour stomach and indigestion. I was subject to headaches when my liver would get out of order. I would have blinding headaches and just couldn't go. I used Theford's BLACK-DRAUGHT and it relieved me."

"About eight years ago my wife got down with liver and stomach trouble. We tried all week to help her, but she didn't get any better. She was nauseated and couldn't eat or rest. She began taking Black-Draught and in two days she was greatly improved and in a week she was up."

HEAD TORN BY SHOT, MAN IS MADE WHOLE
PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—A. G. Smith, 62 years old, of Haddon, who attended physicians in the Abington Memorial hospital by remaining conscious after firing a bullet into his mouth, which tore a big hole in the back of his head, has been discharged from the institution as cured. He immediately asked for his revolver, but the request was refused, police say.

Smith entered the Chelton Hotel station of the Philadelphia and Reading railway on the night of February 27 and held a trackwalker and crossing watchman at bay with the gun, after shooting himself, and was disarmed by the police.

TWINS—HE ENDS LIFE
MADRID, April 9.—When informed he was the father of twins, a peasant of La Trubia carried his pride to the river and committed suicide.

He was fussy about his accounts and always when a new member of the family was expected he made all arrangements and adjusted his budget accordingly.

But this time the stork upset his calculations.

LONDON, April 9.—Some of the London fogs this winter were real varieties of mustard gas, according to Dr. Edwin L. Ash, specialist in nervous diseases.

They contained all its acids and irritating ingredients and seriously affected the delicate membranes of the throat and respiratory organs," he says. Many children contracted actual "fog poisoning."

MOTHER-IN-LAW PRAISES STONE

New Attorney General Likeable Man

By ALEXANDER BERMAN

The New York Special Writer
NEW YORK, April 9.—Harlan Fiske Stone, new attorney general, is a leading lawyer, inspiring educator, apt fisherman, chummy father, devoted husband, but best of all—his finest son-in-law in all the world.

So says Mrs. T. N. Harvey, his mother-in-law, who has lived with him for 18 years.

"In all that time," she says, "I never have heard him utter a cross word or even anything but a smile. Some time ago I told her about the mother-in-law but Harlan jokes with her."

Mrs. Harvey has known Stone since he was four months old. His family and hers were neighbors in Chesterfield, N. H. Both were farming folks.

"Quite naturally, Harlan and my daughter, Agnes, a few years his junior, grew up together," the beaming mother-in-law went on.

"They became sweethearts and I guess still are."

Honor Student
Young Stone went to Amherst, Agnes went to Vermont Academy.

Still they kept close track of each other and their romance grew.

Proudly the girl heard of his football exploits. He became her hero. But it was not primarily as an athlete that Stone shone, but as a scholar.

He was Phi Beta Kappa key and came on to New York to study law at Columbia.

In 1898 he was graduated and admitted to practice. "Just as soon as I was able to make a living I went back home and married," said the attorney general a few minutes after arriving home to tell his wife and mother-in-law of his appointment.

The couple moved to New York and the young barrister proceeded to make a name for himself in his calling. He joined the law offices of Sullivan and Cromwell and became an expert in litigation.

But he did not give up his academic work. His past scholarship won him an appointment as an instructor in the school where he had been a student but a year before.

In 1905 he became a professor and five years later dean, a position he held until last fall, when he resigned to devote more of his time to private practice.

Wife's Health Poor
All these years he never let his work interfere with his family relations. He was the pal of his two sons, Marshall, now 21, and Lauson, 19.

And his greatest thrill always comes with their achievements.

Marshall became an expert in mathematics and was graduated from Harvard at 20, and expects to get his Ph. D. this year.

Lauson is a Harvard junior. He hopes to follow his father's calling.

"The boys and father make a great trio," says Mrs. Harvey, "when they get together and discuss things."

For Dean Stone is still called around Columbia, fondly and affectionately. He does not like golf, motoring and other diversions of the usual professional man.

His favorite outdoor sport is fishing. His favorite indoor sport is reading.

Neither he nor his boys smoke, but they raise some smoke with their discussions.

When they don't spend summers traveling abroad, they spend them on Idle Aa Hunt, Maine. But this summer Pa Stone probably will have to stay in Washington, for the job before him will be the hardest he ever tackled.

It will require all his skill as scholar, litigator and fisherman.

Mrs. Stone may not be able to help her husband with his momentous task. She has been in ill health the past few weeks.

But Stone, under tension, fights hardest, as his sterner square chin indicates.

Boost Mrs. Harding
For Ohio Governor
COLLIERIES, Ohio, April 9.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding for governor of Ohio.

This proposal was made today by R. A. Mack, Gallipoli politician who declared the widow of the late president could carry Ohio over to triumph in the fall election if she were nominated on the republican ticket.

"Business Forced Me To Enter Politics," Doheny Cries in His Own Defense

This is the ninth chapter of "How I Made My Millions," E. L. Doheny's own story of his life. In previous chapters he told how he made his fortune, which made him one of the richest men in America and brought him into the limelight of the senate oil investigation.

By E. L. DOHENY
No man can do big business today without being engaged in governmental affairs.

And the men who know these affairs must be consulted in business.

It is true in Mexico; it is true in the United States; it is probably true the world over.

We are forced into it in our business—by the business itself. Ours is now a business of oil and ships—and both play an important part in the national life, even international life.

As Lord Carson pointed out so well when he said:

"The armies of the allies floated to victory on a wave of oil."

The men best trained in the affairs of government are usually those who have been part of it. So there is really no need for the public to shake its head in amazement when it hears that ex-oil-or-that official has gone into the employ of private business.

Public men are hired for that which they can do for their employer or company. They are supposed to do the best they can—and they usually do.

Of all the men of influence whom I have employed, I haven't met any—not even McAdoo—who didn't do the utmost.

The employment of such men of influence is like the employment of a physician. If they can prevent you from getting sick, you never know how much they have accomplished.

And there is certainly more satisfaction in the adviser who prevents and helps, than in any other.

This was the type of advice I expected to get from the late Secretary Lane—the advantage of his wisdom, his help in making contracts, the diplomacy in obtaining friction.

But lawyers are supposed to have these facilities—to exercise their faculties, like physicians, in preventing trouble. But not all of them do.

I will remember enough of my law studies to be able to pass the bar examination, but I am glad I didn't stick to it for my career.

For I feel that I am too impulsive, too representative, and not patient enough to be a lawyer.

So I stuck to my prospecting, preferring the spouting of oil to that of words.

(In his next chapter Doheny tells how he came to leave Naval Reserve No. 1.)

BRITISH SHIPS HERE INCREASE

200 May Visit This Port
In 1924

For the first three months of 1924 British ships loading out of ports of the Sabine district total 53, and that average, if maintained throughout the year, will give the district a total of more than 200 British ships this year. Major William Crossland, British vice-consul in Port Arthur, said today.

Records kept by Major Crossland show that in 1923 the district had 177 ships and 146, and indications are that this year will show a remarkable increase over the two previous years in the number of British ships handled in Sabine district ports, the consul said.

At the present time three British vessels are loading in Port Arthur. These are the steamships Norwich City and Silver Ash, and the schooner Lady Antoinette. A fourth British vessel, the schooner Rosalie Belliveau, was reported among the arrivals here early today, and will go to the Texas company's terminals for cargo.

Work of getting the full-rigged ship Marion Chilcott ready for sea after being at anchor in the ship basin here for two years is rapidly nearing completion, and the vessel will go to the Texas company's terminals Thursday or Friday to take fuel oil for her auxiliary motors, according to word from Sydney C. Collin company, agents for the ship, today. The Marion Chilcott was recently purchased by the British Molasco, Inc., of San Francisco.

CAMOUFLAGE DANCE

One of the most unique features in "Let No Man Put Asunder," the participation of Basil King's novel on the ends and frivolities of society which lead to the divorce court, is the dance of the camouflaged figures at the great New Year's Eve ball.

The dancing platform was especially designed in a sort of futuristic style, and the figures of the dancers were so painted that they merged into the platform without being detected. Not even the lens of the camera could distinguish between the walls of the platform and the human bodies. When they danced it is as if they had been summoned by magic.

J. Stuart Blackton, the producer of this Vitaphone special, now being shown at the Liberty theater, planned the design and supervised the technical arrangements.

But They Did See Cupid!

John K. Connors, blind soap salesman and newspaper reader in New Orleans, gave a lecture one day at the Mississippi School for the Blind. He told how he, though sightless, had won his fight. After his talk, he confided to an instructor how lonely he was. The instructor gave him the names of several blind pupils to whom he might write. One was Katie Blackledge of Bethel, Miss. Now John and Katie have a little 'love nest' in New Orleans. They're spending their honeymoon there.

FATHER GETS BRIDE'S DRESS BY COURT ORDER

MILWAUKEE, April 8.—If Mamie Little, 22, the vanishing bride, ever decides to reappear, she will find her clothes at the home of her father and not at the home of the sister of her fiancé, where she was living at the time of her disappearance January 23, two days before she was scheduled to marry Frank Strosina, 148 Locust street.

Mamie's father, Herman, of 984 Grant street, obtained a writ of replevin for his daughter's clothes and personal effects from Judge Cummings in civil court. He also requested and obtained the protection of a policeman for the service of the writ, declaring that he feared without escort as Frank had threatened to "knock his block off."

"I don't know where Mamie is," he said. "I haven't seen her nor heard from her since she disappeared."

Frank and Mamie planned to be married February 1, but there were religious differences which caused the girls' parents to disapprove of the match.

HAND INJURED WHEN HE CATCHES AN OWL

STROUDSBURG, Pa., April 8.—Anxiety for a live squirrel resulted in T. M. Smith of this place, a lineman employed on the Lehigh Valley railroad, suffering a badly mutilated hand.

Smith saw what he supposed to be a squirrel climb to the top of a high telegraph pole and enter a hole. He fastened his climber and started up after the animal. On reaching the top of the pole, Smith shoved his hand into the hole. He was bitten severely. The animal turned out to be a screech owl.

Port Arthur Athletic Club Nine to Practice Again at Cosmopolitan Ball Park Friday Afternoon at 5 o'Clock

Mat Fans Getting Primed for Big Bout in Club Friday Eve

Burns Wrestles For Fun of Game

BY BILL ARCHER

WHEN "Scotty" Ferguson and Jack Burns meet here Friday evening in the Port Arthur Athletic Club's arena, wrestling fans will have an opportunity to "get a line" on two big fellows that have been much talked about in this community.

Ferguson came here some time ago to make his home. He has not been active in the mat field for some time, having, "about retired," but urged by many friends which he has made since he came to Port Arthur, "Scotty" has been induced to appear against Burns, and declared a couple of days ago that "if the fans want me, I'll go as often as I can."

Burns, a Beaumont business man, wrestles purely for his love of the sport; and those who are well acquainted with Jack, assert he has an ardent love of the game. Incongruous, he frequently appears as the main attraction in communities surrounding Jefferson county, and he has been hitting the wrestling trail with the proverbial "high, wide and handsome" stride that makes winners. There's little doubt, but that he and Ferguson will be well watched, and that they will give the fans a treat Friday evening when they cut loose.

Actor May Challenge

It was rumored on the streets yesterday that George Actor, "The Prince of Port Arthur," now at Eldorado, Kans., where he wrestles tonight in a finish mill, and who is expected back to this city around the 15th of the month, will sound a challenge in the ring at the Port Arthur Athletic Club Friday evening through a friend, asking for a match with either participant, the winner or both.

Arrangements are being made by management of the athletic club to house a large number of wrestling fans Friday evening, and it was announced this morning that the prelims will be "fast and snappy."

Wrestlers Working Out

Burns and Ferguson are working out daily now, hibernating up with light tactics, and will be in tip-top shape for their grind.

The curtain raisers will get under way about 8 o'clock, and the main boys will probably get on the mats between 8:15 and 9 o'clock.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

A personal of the major league batting records would make it seem so. Left handers have been far more frequent in winning batting championships.

For years the right hander had been in the eclipse as batting champion. Only in the last four years has the left hander been pushed into the background.

Larry Lajoie, a right hander, won the American league championship in 1905. Since that time Harry Heilmann is the only other right hander to break into the championship spotlight.

Tr Cobb, famed star of the Detroit Tigers, has accounted for an even dozen winners. He showed the way for nine consecutive years, 1907 to 1916. Then after losing out to Tris Speaker, won three more in a row.

Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals started the comeback of the right handers in the National league. He took down the honors in 1919, and has earned the trick four times since.

In winning the National league batting championship for four consecutive years, Hornsby ties the National league record held by Hans Wagner.

Inspired by the work of Hornsby, Harry Heilmann, noted slugger of the Detroit Tigers, has won two out of the last three "bat" titles in the American league.

Why has the left hander been far more consistent than the right hander in taking down the big league batting honors?

Walker Johnson, famous pitcher of the Washington Nationals, once gave me a pretty good reason for the apparent superiority of the left hander as a champion.

"The left hander as a rule plays more 'baseball' at the plate," says Johnson. "He makes pitching a tougher job."

"The left-handed hitters seem to wait you out more, have a penchant for picking on the cripple, mix up their style, seek to outguess you."

"In addition, a majority of them are fast and try to take advantage of their step earlier first because of their position in the batter's box."

Has the lively ball played a part in the revival of the right hander as a batting champion? Pitcher Urian Slaughter of the St. Louis Browns seems to think so. His views bear out Johnson's theory, only with the reverse result.

"The lively ball has done away with much of the strategy at the plate," says the Browns' star. "A majority of the better are up there swinging. The player who tries to hunt, drag, or place his hit, is the exception."

"The rabbit ball also has taken some of the premium off speed. In general, it has worked to the advantage of the right hander more than the left hander."

"Hornsby and Heilmann are great batsmen. Neither is a speed merchant. The base hits they make are seldom of the scratch variety. They are real champions."

WORD from France is that Epinard, called "the best race horse in Europe," is prepping splendidly for the speedster's American invasion, which is set for late in the summer. Epinard will run three races in America, meeting the best of picked fields. The exact conditions under which the races will be run and the identity of the opposition will be worked out later. This is a new picture of the great horse and was taken this spring in France.

Pocket Billiard Artists Play 200 Block Game

Tonight in the Port Arthur Athletic clubrooms, members of the organization will be treated to the club's second smoker, when Cleve Paige, expert pocket billiard player from Decatur, meets Ed Haines, southern champion, in a block of 200 points.

The players will exhibit trick and fancy pocket billiard shots for members of the club, who are cordially invited to attend.

This is another step in the club management's program of athletic entertainment for members, many similar engagements of which are on tap.

Sand Plans Big Philly Comeback

By NEA Service

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Has Johnny Sand, the shortstop who came up from the Pacific coast last year preceded by blaring bands and much bellybusting only to fall miserably, found himself? Art Fletcher, manager of the Phillies, seems to think so.

Fletcher tells you that Sand started to come the last six weeks in the 1923 season when he cut loose with an amazing batting spurt, and, for the first time during the year, began to field flawlessly.

"I look for him to pick right up this spring where he left off last fall and if he does he will be the ranking shortstop in the National League," predicts Fletcher.

As incredible as it may seem the Phillies paid $25,000 for Sand last year—all they said they paid $25,000 for him—and naturally plenty was expected to aim Sand proved a terrible flop; he only hit .228 and he made more errors than any shortstop in either league.

At one stage Sand's work became so horrible that Fletcher had to take him out of the lineup and us Parkison, the utility man.

"I think this was due to stage fright more than anything else," explains Fletcher. "The youngster got off to a bad start and the fans began roasting him, with the usual result: the kid went to pieces."

Sand's feeling and hitting were of high caliber in the spring scrambles against major league opposition.

Speaker and Bobby

Tris Speaker and Bobby Jones met for the first time on an Atlanta golf course the other day. The Indians' manager was in rare form and gave the open champion an interesting battle, losing by a decent margin. "I suppose you'd call it decent," commented Speaker. "He only beat me three holes in a nine-hole match, and I suspect he was taking things easy at that."

AMATEUR STAR LEADING FIELD

Wethered Most Feared in British Open Clash

By JOE WILLIAMS

Is Mr. Oracle in the house, Mr. Gus II. Oracle of You-Tell-Lin, Iowa, and points east?

We should like to learn from the credit gentleman just what chance, if any, America has of clinching Johnny Bull back of the air again in the British open golf championship this spring.

You may recall—if you are still with us—that American professionals for the past several years have been making a lousy out of the British classic.

In 1921 Jack Hutchinson of Chicago won at St. Andrews after a playoff with Roger Wethered, the amateur, and Tommy Kerrigan of the Metropolitan district was but two strokes out in third place.

In 1922 Walter Hagen, Rochester, New York, led the field to the winning stroke, at Sandwich, with Jim Barnes of New York second and Hutchinson—the same Jack—third.

Ends British Monopoly

The shock of witnessing three Americans sweep the boards in this historic event proved entirely too much for the natives, and police were active all the following day dragging the River Clyde for bodies of morbid Scots.

Last year at Troon, Hagen came within one fluttering stroke of repeating, a five on the par-48 eighth hole during the final round costing him the title, which ultimately went to Havers, the stately Englishman.

This record of two American triumphs in successive years and a hang-up-American second the following year indicates quite clearly that the age-old British monopoly on golf no longer exists.

America will send another strong team ever this spring, headed by Gene Sarazen, the match-play champion, and Hagen. Sarazen is keen to triumph in the event across the sea. He went over last year, but like many others making their first appearance abroad, cut an inconspicuous figure.

Watch Mr. Wethered

Havers, because of his purple robes, will be the outstanding British defender. The Americans, however, feel they have little to fear from him.

The British champion has been repeatedly beaten here this spring in tournaments and exhibition matches. He is hardly the golfer that Vardon and Ray represented in bygone competitive days.

It strikes us that Wethered, the amateur champion, will be the most dangerous individual in the enemy field. Always a magnificent stroke golfer—as he demonstrated three seasons ago by tying Hutchinson—the tall, sinuous youngster, with added experience, has steadied noticeably, and is given less frequently to spasms of wildness.

On his game, Wethered will be more dangerous than Havers, Mitchell or Donnan, a match for anybody, including our best.

The United States last year imported $422,483,139 pounds of sugar and exported 782,251,135 pounds.

GIANTS, SOX, TIE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 9.—Through a mistake in posting the runs on the scoreboard, the Giants and the White Sox quit the fight at the end of nine innings, thinking the Giants had won 10 to 3. The score was a 9-9 tie. The box on the board marked up four runs for the Giants in the fourth inning when they had scored only 3.

CLAIM BEST HURLERS

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 9.—Manager Tris Speaker thinks the Indians have about the best southpaw hurlers of any club in the league in Elton, Smith and Edwards and in Uhl and Coyle-Schick. Two "knock-out" right-handers.

TO MEET STRIBLING

NEW YORK, April 9.—Mike Burke, Greenwich Village lightweight, was signed to meet Young Stribling on the Olympic fund benefit card here on April 20. Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh lightweight star, will meet Ever Hammer, Chicago, in one of the other bouts.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON NO. 12—THE EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES

"Did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear?"

A very unexpected person made a visit to Doolunny Land. You would think he'd be too awfully busy right at this time to go to such a far-away country, but there he was, long ears and short tail and all. It was the Easter Bunny.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz met him on the road, peering this way and that as though he was looking for something.

"How do you do?" he said, "did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear, and a hollow hen?"

Mister Fuzz Wuzz laughed. "With one ear and a hollow hen? What did he want with a hollow hen?"

"It's no time for joking," said the Easter Bunny. "I asked you if you had seen a hollow hen and a one-eared chocolate rabbit."

"Well, who didn't you say so?" exclaimed Miss Fuzz Wuzz. "You said a rabbit with one ear and a hen."

"Oh, shush!" said the newcomer. "I haven't time to waste. My Easter baskets are all ready but one, and it was ready, too, but when I had my back turned to get some tiny eggs to put into the basket, the bunny and hen slipped off. All that was left was one of the bunny's ears and a few crumbs of maple sugar off the hen. I've been to Sugar Plum Land, but they are not there, and Tor Land, but they are not there either! Doolunny Land was the only place I could think of after that so I came here. Are you sure you didn't see them?"

"No, we didn't," said the Twins.

"And I didn't," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "However, there are a lot of people in Doolunny Land you have not asked yet. Come along, Bunny, we'll go with you."

"See a bunny with a chicken?" exclaimed the Easter Bunny.

"Nope, I didn't. Did you, friend dog?" For the cat and dog had made it up and were now living peacefully.

"Nope!" said the dog. "But I like chocolate. I'm sorry I didn't. And I like maple sugar, too."

"Next they met, let me see. I think it was the hen in the nest."

"Did I see a chocolate bunny and a maple sugar hollow hen? No, I didn't," and he wagged his long horse-hair whiskers. "Where did you say you left the basket with the chocolate ear in it? It might make a meal."

"Never mind where I left it," said the Easter Bunny sharply. "That's one reason I wish to find the run-aways. Before they can tell my secrets. And just before taking the baskets around to the children's houses, I always warn the basket people not to tell either."

"Well, I didn't see either of them," squeaked the mouse, running away.

"See a rabbit and hen?" cried all the Humpity Dumpty Circus animals.

"No, we didn't, but we wish we had."

And the way they licked their lips under the Easter Bunny's silver. "I think I'll be going," he said hastily, thanking Mister Fuzz Wuzz and the Twins. "I'm sure the bunny and the hen were wiser than I was to stay away from such appetites."

"Why, that's what chocolate bunnies and sugar hens are for," laughed Nancy. "and I hope you will find them, so the child for whom the basket is intended won't be disappointed."

"That's so," laughed the bunny amiably. "But I don't mind the children eating them."

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

Rome Gets Tired of Kings

The kings of earliest Rome seldom, if ever, got their power from fathers who had been kings before them. The usual thing was for each king to be chosen by vote. The young was not like that of the present day. Only a small part of the people could vote. They were men who were the oldest members of the richer families.

In certain cases, the king got his power by killing the man in office. The king held the throne as long as he lived. He could have a person whipped or even killed if he wanted to do so. Some of his servants were called "lictors." They often marched near him, carrying bundles of sticks. In each bundle was an axe.

The sticks were meant to show the king's power to have a citizen flogged. The ax showed his power to put people to death.

The tribes which settled in Rome and the country around were called "Latins." The Romans spoke the Latin language (some day you may study it in high school). One Latin word was "senator." It means "old man." A number of old men became the Roman "Senate."

The senate had very little power while the kings were ruling. The old senators came together and listened to what the king had to say. If he asked them a question, they would answer. Otherwise they were not supposed to speak.

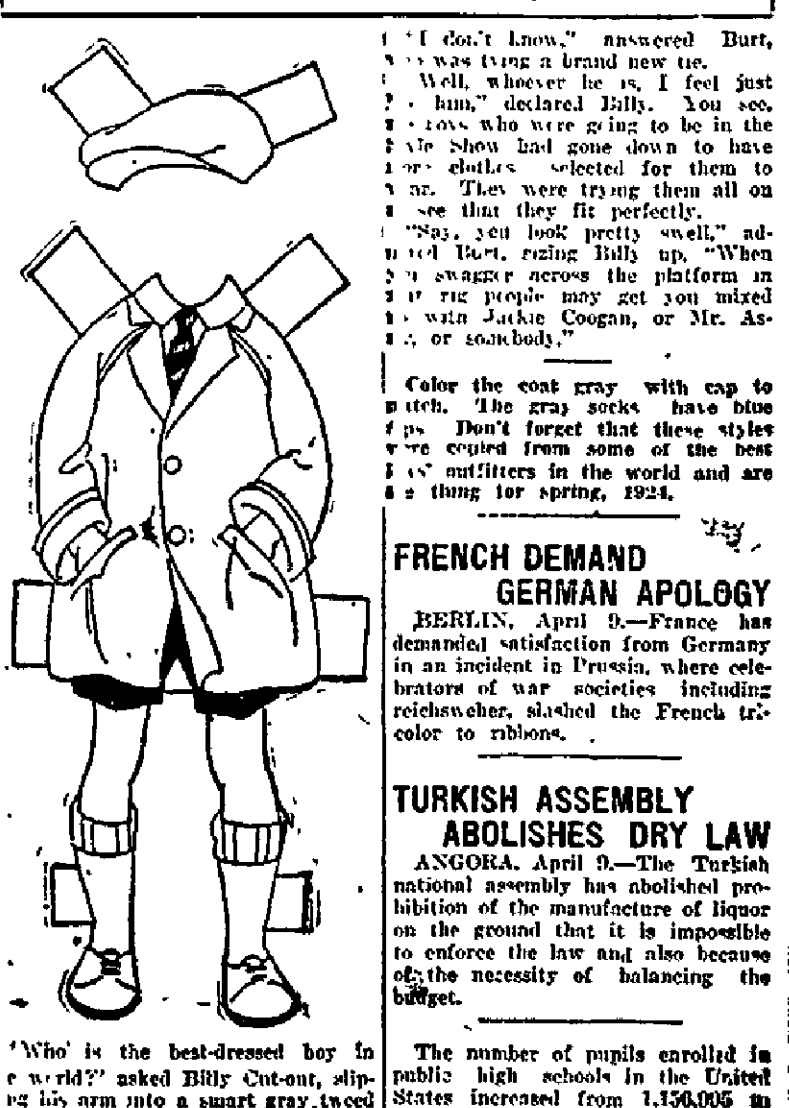

By and by, Romans became tired of having one man rule the city all his life. They banded together and made the king leave the city.

This is said to have happened almost 2,500 years ago. In the years which followed, Rome was ruled by the senate and two consuls. New consuls were usually elected each year.

VOLUNTEERS DO MUCH WORK HERE

Social Welfare Problems Being Relieved

Social welfare work giving aid to nearly 60 men and women is reported by Captain and Mrs. J. R. Slade, in charge of the Volunteers of America Mission, 345 Fort Worth avenue, for the first two weeks they have been in Port Arthur carrying on this work. The volunteers have furnished 20 meals, given 10 lodgings for the night, and provided seven applicants with clothing, Captain Slade reported. In addition to this railroad fare has been given two men who asked for help to get to jobs out of town, a woman has been supplied with groceries, and employment has been secured for 10 men and one girl, according to the workers in charge of the mission.

"We are working in co-operation with the Red Cross and other similar organizations so no one can get help from more than one organization at a time," Captain Slade said. "In this way doubling up on social welfare problems in Port Arthur is avoided, and we are very particular about our investigations of those who come to us for help," he said.

ASHLAND, April 9.—The lifeless body of Charles Bloodhorn, aged town clerk of Ashland, was found hanging in the basement of the town hall Wednesday afternoon by members of the town board who had gone to hold a meeting in the hall.

Bloodhorn is over 70. He has been town clerk for 20 years. Failing eyesight and disappointment over the fact that nobody took out nomination papers for him in the town elections are believed to be responsible for the old clerk's suicide. Walter Kuehl, as neighbor of Bloodhorn, was elected as town clerk Tuesday.
